Ronacrete Returns to Distinctive Packaging for the Ubiquitous Ronafix Barrel

Ronafix – perhaps Ronacrete’s most recognizable brand, has been in existence since 1969 and has been a staple bonding and waterproofing admixture of the Hong Kong construction industry since 1985. Available in small, medium and big barrels it is the distinctive red and yellow 220L drums that have helped make it so recognizable. Not only when the product is being used but also for the quality of the drums that are left after the Ronafix has been fully decanted. Their uses are almost endless as we have seen them used as floats for buoyancy, site tables, site chairs, rubbish bins, storage bins, water buckets, sinks, settling tanks and of course simply reused after a thorough rinsing.

And now 30 years after its introduction into Hong Kong we have gone back to our original fully printed drums but with a distinctive new look. The product is unchanged and its performance is as high and reliable as the drum that it comes in. We even considered drawing a dotted line around the middle of the drum as a cutting guide for when the drum inevitably reaches the end of its life...but where’s the fun in that! Better we leave you to your imagination and find your own use for the drum.
